Senator John R. Phillips, of the eigtheenth, a member of the tax commission appointed by Governor Walker, asserted that the Lankford amendment passed by the senate Thursday with certain modifications, "does not mean much in the way of taxation reform." He stated that he had voted for it, nevertheless, because he believed it to be the entering wedge for a more equitable basis of taxation.

Mr. Phillips said the big business interests of Georgia, which had fought income tax legislation for years, were not reconciled. He declared, however, that the governor's tax commission had accomplished considerably in this regard, in that it had pointed out to the business interests of the state where such a tax was necessary and was the most logical form of taxation legislation.

Representative Herschell Elders, of Tatnall, urged the asembleage to throw aside all other matters and pass an income tax amendment in the house. He took occasion to declare himself in favor of the Lankford measure adouted by the sengte but stated. Resolutions stipulating appointment of a "steering" committee to foster introduction and adoption of a ure adopted by the senate, but stated he would introduce an amendment when it comes up for consideration in the house providing for striking of all ent to support a reasonable income tax which will be a real reform and relief to people of Georgia, were unan-imously adopted by more than 50 members of the general assembly at lvalorem taxes from the statute oks of the state.

"I believe that it would be wisdom of this body to abolish all ad valorem taxes and depend upon the income tax of five per cent and special license and occupational taxes for the state's revenues. Then we will have accomplished what we were called here to do." The resolution providing for indorse gard were shared by Attorney General George M. Napier, who rendered a ruling during the afternoon in which he held the governor had a legal right to issue the second call before the first session had adjourned.

"The second call of the governor's for a special session," declared President Carswell, "coming at this time is indeed unfortunate, in that it has caused considerable confusion in the minds of the legislators. I trust, however, that the conservative members ever, that the conservative members of both houses will get together and pull the state out of its present taxaon muddle by adopting a sound tax law.

Lay Aside Personal Feeling.

"To do this, however, it is necessary that we lay aside all personal feeling and work to the common end of elevating the state's interests to the point where legislation that will produce adequate revenues will result.

'In all of my 21 years of activity "In all or my 21 years of activity with the Georgia general assembly, I can truthfully say that I have never seen an assemblage of law-makers, more capable of solving the state's financial problems than the present legislature. There are, however, about 50 men in the assembly who are dominating the other 200 members, and until the majority gets together and organizes, I am somewhat skeptical as to whether a real texation law will be adopted.

"The house of representatives should by all means become thoroughly organized and Governoy, Walker is the only one to bring this about. I believe that the senate is ready and willing to do more than its share in accomplishing much needed taxation reforms, and I most assuredly stand ready to back the governor in his program with all of my might."

The First Call. It will be remembered that in the original call Governor Walker limited the objects to be discussed to accide original call Governor Walker limited the objects to be discussed to revision of the tax system of the state and the subject of free school books for common school pupils. Included in the administration program for tax reform is the recommendation that a state audit department be created, a state budget system with enlarged powers devised, and measures to strengthen the enforcement laws on tax attain passed.

strengthen the enforcement laws on taxation passed.

Some members have questioned whether these subjects can rightfully be included under the call as originally worded, and the call for the second session is intended by the governor as supplemental to the first call, removing this doubt. One bill to create a state auditing department, introduced by Senator Pace, of the thirteenth, has already passed the upper house.

Session Begins Today.

Session Begins Today.

Therefore, the second session, running concurrently with the present one, will legally commence at 10 o'clock Friday morning, when both houses take up their lawmaking burdens for the day.

Another question raised by some members of the house, in speaking of the second call, was that this did not include the tax questions and free textbooks issue found in the first call. Arguing that the calling of the second special session automatically adjourns the first, they declare that row no tax reform or free textbook legislation can be legally enacted, insumeh as from now on the assembly will be in session under authority of the governor to issue a third call, combining the essential portions of both the preceding ones.

Speaker Neill, however, overruled the last point when it was brought up by Representative Stewart, of Atkinson, and placed the broad construction, evidently intended by the governor, that the two sesseions should run concurrent.

The most interesting photograph was that of a year-old child, which was wrapped with an ear of corn at either side and with a full set of human teeth resting on the stomach. The results of Thursday's experiments were so successful that the composition of these beads was determined.

Two stone images were wrapped with the mummy of a man. The outline of their faces were clearly distinguished, and an eye of one was visible.

Thursday, he received the tenowing letter:

"I have just seen that you will introduce a bill taxing syrups for cold drinks. Right you are. Vermit me to suggest that you try taxing chewing gum. . . . It is disgusting to see people everywhere wiggling their jaws like billygoats. I attended a meeting last night and quietly watched the 'gumming.' It was immense. . . Why not do something to raise revenue and at the same time check gum chewing."

Mr. McMichael turned over the let-ter to Representative Covington, who has a taste for chewing gum.

The Bibb representative and the "gentleman from Lumpkin" have appeared in public several times this session attired in black "swallow tail" coats and gray trousers—the combination often worn by senators and governors during off political seasons.

At present, the two lawmakers are without rivals in either house, but a prediction has been that other members are planning to follow in their example. If this shouli happen, observers said today, it would be a hard task for old-timers to recognize the Georgia assembly.

Must We Cancel Her War Debts to Save Europe?

The war debts of the European Allies to the United States amount to $11,328,066,747, and the billion and a half dollars of interest overdue on these debts brings this total to neary thirteen billion dollars-about $116 to every man, woman, and child under the Stars and Stripes. Secretary Hughes has stipulated that the proposed committee of international financial experts to investigate Germany's resources must not bring up the question of inter-allied debts. On the other hand, France insists that the allied debts are at the root of the issue and there is a body of public opinion in that country that evidently expects America to cancel its debt to France. In THE LITERARY DIGEST this week, you will get a good impression of the way France, Britain, and Belgium look upon their debts to this country, and American public opinion upon America's stake in the reparations dispute. BERRY SCHOOLS

Frederick Palmer, famous war cor respondent, according to a recent article in the American Legion Weekly, intends to devote next winter to a study of educational conditions in rural southern states and in the mountains of Virginia. In the article Mr. Palmer refers to the southern soldiers in very laudatory terms and it is the interest he has in the south that brings him to this part of the United States.

Word has been received at the Berry schools in Rome that he anticipates a visit to the schools, which he considers the centers of education for the rural boys and girls.

Mr. Palmer is perhaps the dean of war correspondents and ranks with Sir Philip Gibbs in international repute. He served in the capacity of correspondent in practically every war since 1905 when his articles appeared in Collier's Weekly and in the London Times. His articles at all times created great interest, both in this country and in Europe.

During the world war Mr. Palmer discarded his neutrality and served with the American troops at the front. It was in France that he came in contact with men from the south,

COMMUNITY CHEST

Washington, November 15.—Delesates to the Southern Medical association concluded their annual convention here today with President Coolidge and the election of officers.

At the white house, the formalities of the customary handshake were dispensed with and President Coolidge spoke briefly. He declared the members of the medical profession were rendering "a service that reaches beyond any trade or occupation."

Dr. Charles L. Minor, of Asbeville, N. C., was elected president.

Mrs. Coolidge received the women physicians at a reception prior to the white house visit of the delegates.

The following tribuite to former President Wilson was adopted unantimously:

"We, the members of the Southern Medical association, in meeting assembled, hereby appress the love and homage of our hearts for that great statesman and pure patriot, Woodrow Wilson, the greatest exponent of democracy and the noblest exemplar of humanitarian ideals in the world today."

Visits to Baltimore and Charlottesville, Va., will be made tomorrow and Saturday, respectively, by many of the delegates to conduct open clinics.

O'Ryan wanted to know if the former bureau director had had an altercation with Mortimer on Labor day, 1922.

"I had some words with him, but do not remember when it was."

"Was it about Mrs. Mortimer bad former in an apartment at the Wardman Park Inn here, but declared the door was wide open.

The former director denied that it was a few days later that he became indignant because of Mortimer's connection with the Sutherland Constitution of Mrs. Mortimer for mer bureau director had had an altercation with Mortimer on Labor day, "I don't remember. It might have been partially about her."

"I am making no charges. The charges are made by Colonel Forbes. I hold that this questioning of me by committee counsel is entirely improper. I shall consult with the committee and furnish the list of witnesses at the noon recess if that is desirable." Chairman Reed said the comittee would meet him at that time, and the cross-examination of Forbes was resumed.

"I cannot answer that question said the witness, but O'Ryan pressed him."

It developed today that Mrs. Elias H. Mortimer, wife of one of the chief witnesses against Forbes, had been examined by the committee in executive session. O'Ryan read a report from E. A Graupner, of San Francisco, that he and John R. Quinn and other officials of the American Legion na! advised Forbes of charges of corruption in connection with Livermor.

The document declared that the reports that L. B. Jonnson, who sold the site, had said he uad to pay out $25,000 of the purchase price to be sent to Washington. "When it is realized that these reports from the four divisions of the individual subscriptions campaign represent small contributions from a great many people, one can realize the tromendous work these campaigners are doing and appreciate it at its full value," said R. L. Foreman, who commands the four divisions. Mr. Foreman made this public acknowledgment of the work being done by his forces, at Thursday's noonday meeting of the campaign in the basement of the Healey building. "It has been a notable fact in this campaign that the people of small means are giving very much more generously than their wealthier fellow citizens."

"After all the big thing in this

"After all the big thing in this campaign is not the amount of money that is being raised," said Rabbi David Marx in a stirring speech at Thursday's meeting. "The big thing is that we have been able to mobilize our better selves for a striking expression of the Atlanta spirit, which really is the spirit of neighborliness and un-selfishness."

Morale of People.

Dr. Marx added that the greatest benefit to the city is not to the institutions that are being helped through the Community Chest campaign.

the Community Chest campaign.

"The greatest benefit is to you, in helping you to find yourselves," he said. "Next to our God-giver gift of climate, the biggest thing in Atlanta is the morale of our people, our ability not necessarily to put a thing over the top but to put a good thing up where it belongs and keep it there when it is up.

"This is the biggest work that has been done in Atlanta," Dr. Marx continued, "The richest men in our city are perhaps materially the poorest," he added, after emphasizing the work are perhaps materially the poorest," he added, after emphasizing the work the Community Chest movement is doing in raising a new standard of moral value. Dr. Marx told the story of the man who, on arriving in heaven, experienced three surprises. The first surprise was that he himself was there. The second surprise was that he met certain people there. And the third surprise was that he did not meet certain other people.

"We are going to find out a number of things about the people who are there and the people who are there and the people who are not there," said Dr. Marx.

Eugene R. Black, general chairman of the campaign, touched on this same ground in addressing the assembled hundreds of workers at Thursday's meeting.

"It doesn't make any great difference what you accumulate in this world, you are mighty poor if you don't accumulate some friendship and some love," said he.

Executive members of the campaign

Executive members of the campaign headquarters requested the newspapers of Atlanta, Thursday, to advise all residents who were away from home when the Community Chest campaigners called, to get in touch Friday with either the generals commanding the divisions of the campaign or with headquarters itself, either in room 1002 Candler building or in the Healey building hasement, and leave their subscription.

"If these people cannot call in person and make their subscriptions at beadquarters, we will have someone come out and see them," said R. L. "We don't want to miss anybody for we believe that aractically everybody in Atlanta is willing to contribute to this cammaign, and for their own good as shareholders in Atlanta's welfare work we want to give them every opportunity to come in. Dr. Tikhon, archbishop and metropolitan of the Greek orthodox church in Russia, deposed last year by the reds because he refused to discontinue the teaching of religion, is in a precarious condition in the jail-hospital at Moscow. Fascismo, the movement originated by the black-shirted boys in Italy, is spreading over the world. Holland is going to experiment with it and Japan already has a strong fascist party. Is it all right for a boy 16 years old to take cold baths in the morning? How should it be taken? (Louis.)

Some such morning discolling mer, and in still others not until autumn, according to the pollination period of the weed or plant which is to blame. Pollens of the various grasses cause the spring hay fever in most parts of the country, though some cases are caused by sheep sorrel, swamp alder, the docks, elm, oak. The fall fever is due mostly to the ragweeds, Russian thistle, wormwood, cocklebur, etc.

When a condition purporting to be hay fever occurs in midwinter or continues long after frost, it isn't hay fever at all. There is no such thing as perennial hay fever.

Now, comparatively little has been said and comparatively little complaint has been made of this five-sixths of the total ad valorem rate which is being paid to the various municipalities and counties in Georgia. In view of this fact, it does seen singular, to say the fact, it does seem singular, to say the least, that there has been so much criticism of the small proportion of these taxes which the state of Georgia receives.

To a close observer of the present discussion of tax matters in Georgia it must be apparent that it is the intention of those who are agitating the matter to eventually eliminate ad valorem taxes in Georgia for state purposes and to take the place of these ad valorem rates to substitute an income tax on individuals and coran income tax on individuals and cor-porations, but a close study of the various proposals tending in this di-rection will disclose that it is the intention that comparatively few individuals in the state of Georgia shall pay these taxes, perhaps not more than 10 per cent, but the 90 per cent, roughly speaking, would tell the 10 per cent what they had to pay and would make the appropriations for them to pay. Under such a system it would not be very material to the them to pay. Under such a system it would not be very material to the 90 per cent what taxes were levied because they would not pay them and under such a system we could not reasonably look forward to any economy in the matter of appropriations.

-"Suppose Nobody Cared"-PLAN COMPROMISE ON PROPOSED TAX PENALTY REFUND

In these days of income taxes and governmental economy, it is an error of magnitude to place an official of the state on record as receiving a larger salary than the law actually allows him.

Such an error—of course entirely minitentional—crept into a story in The Constitution Thursday, referring to Comptroller General William A. Wright. As the story read, it appeared that General Wright received a total salary from the state of $8,000 a year, whereas the truth is that his total salary is only $5,000. In that portion of the general appropriations bill which fixes the salary for the office, the comptroller general is allowed $2,000 a year, a salary and the insurance commissioner is allowed $3,000 a year, making a total salary for General Wright, who acts in both capacities, of $5,000 per year.

The error was caused by an inadvertant adding of the insurance commissioner's $3,000 to the total $5,000, instead of to the mere $2,000 which the comptroller general gets.

Hopes Are High.

With the announcement that the injured players will make the trip there comes a stronger ray of hope to followers of the Red and Black. Had the powerful scoring quartet been bereft of three of its members as was once thought, the hopes of the Athenians would have been staked on an intercepted pass, a blocked lick, or some irregular method of scoring. Important, too, to the defensive play as well, is the first string backfield, with its more varied experience at breaking up passes and diagnosing plays.

Despite the encouragement caused by the announcement that the crippled stars will make the trip, lo cool thinker can help realizing the tremendous task that faces the Bulldogs. Leave Thursday Night.

The squad that will be taken to Nashville boards the train immediately after practice tonight, reaching its destination tomorrow. A whole day in Nashville should give its members a chance for rest and a little workout. They should become acclimated by the hour of the first whistle and be ready to play the very best game that the injured state of the team will allow.

Going with the team will allow.

The Camp Benning officers are expecting to give the Stormy Petrels a lively sixty minutes of play but the Oglethorpe clan is doped to win easily over its rival. This startling announcement came rom President Jack Corbett last light, who stated that the Crackers would limber up for the coming sea-sen next spring at "once de Le in park. He also stated that the locals would play the New York Yankees, world's champions, an exhibition game here on April 5 or 12.

The new stands at Poncey will be completed by the time the first call is issued for the training period, which will be about the middle of Merch. An experienced trainer will be added to the personnel of the Cracker squad to look after "he conditioning of the squad.

Many people have contended in the past that the Crackers' training jaunts to Mississippi and Florida be the only factor that would prevent the locals from being able to get in shape. But ample space will be provided under the stands where the squad can get a light workont, if the actual playing field is not in shape for work.

The weather was ideal in Palatka, Fla., last year where the locals trained last season. Not a single practice was missed because of inclement weather. Three weeks of hard work under the warm Florida sunshine had the squad in fine shape, but two weeks' tour through the Carolinas, where the climate was far different from that experienced in Florida practically made the results obtained in camp count for naught. The cold winds caused many sore arms to develop.

Two of last year's local pitching staff have been sold to the Yankees this year. Benny Karr and George Dumont, twirling aces of the squad, will probably make their appearance against their old teammates.

The work on the new stands will probably be started within the next week or so, while work of resodding the diamond has been under way since the season closed. When the work has been completed the Crackers' ball yard will no doubt be the best equipped plant in the south. The grandstand will be capable of seating 9,800 people while the bleachers on the rightfield bank will be able to take care of large crowds. Bleachers will care of large crowds. The salad shower begins-it's salad this and salad that, salad and salad there; salad of endive, salad of chicken, salad of fruit and salad of vegetable, salad with mayonnaise, salad with aspic, salad with French, Russian, Thousand Island, Patagonian, Belgian block, and a hundred other dressings; salad made from the heart of a palm imported from the and in some reasonable instances, thank goodness, potato salad.

Joe received a bark on the shin in practice the first part of the week. He paid no attention to the laceration, and it steadily got worse. Yesterday morning, Joe was unable to get out of bed. An examination showed that he had a high fever.

He was carried immediately to the hospital, and his leg was lanced. While his condition is in no wise serious, nevertheless, it will be five or six days before he is able to leave the bed.

This latest casualty puts Tech in a bad position for the game Saturday. Hunt, Farnesworth and Usry are sure to be out of the game. Gardner will start perhaps, but there is no telling how long his knee will hold up. Huffines is the only one of the four first string tackles who is in good shape for the game. Usry is out. The competition, therefore, will be unusually keen among the galaxy of performers who have their ambitions set upon a trip to Paris in the summer.

Several preliminary meets are scheduled in December, but the main program begins in January and continues in a succession of important events until March. Such fixtures as the National A. A. U. junior and senior championships, the eastern intercollegiates and the Boston A. A., and Mill Rose A. A. invitation affairs will be supplemented by numerous other events which are expected to attract leading talent.

The Mill Rose club plans one of the most eleborate programs in its history, a two-day meet at Madison Square Garden January 29 and 30, to which stars from all parts of the country, as well as from several foreign nations, will be invited.

More than 15 meets, under the auspices of club, military and college organizations, are scheduled in the metropolitan district alone, beginning January 12 and continuing until March 1, the date of the eastern intercollegiate championships. The Newark, A. C. and the Wilco A. A. games are among others of prominence listed.

been expecting it and have been making thir campaign plans accordingly. One of the first results probably will be the announcement of a number of native sons candidates from various states, particularly those having presidential preference primary laws.

Until a few months prior to the death of President Harding the regular republican leaders were making their plans on the theory that they would encounter no contest from Senator Johnson. Up to the time the late president announced his proposal for entry into the world court with certain reservations, Senator Johnson was reported by associates who interviewed him on the subject as feeling that a campaign against rehearsals for Friday afternoon and Saturday were called by Eugene Trader, director of the production to be given under sponsorship of the Atlanta Woman's club. The cast of 1,400 young people, including some of the most prominent socially in Atlanta, is being drilled steadily in order that the "Kirmess" may have professional finish in all details, and rehearsals will be personal that the "Suppose Nobody Cared"—

Johnson's associates that the California senator did not intend to enter any state in a preconvention campaign for delegates. Mr. Harding himself believed Senator Johnson would not contest the nomination with him and so told his intimates.

Soon after Mr. Harding made his first world court proposal publicly. Senator Johnson is reported to have told those who had consulted him previously that a world court issue probably would have some influence in making his final decision. From that time the regular republican leaders began to regard him as a contender, and the death of Mr. Harding, they considered, made his candidacy a certain one unless President Coolidge developed some issue which would make his own nomination certain.

The understanding in republican political circles is that Senator Johnson delayed making his announcement until he had opportunity to make a careful survey of the situation in several of the northwestern states from which Senator La Follette draws much support and in which the Wisconsin senator is expected to seek delegates for himself.

The understanding here most recently has been that some announcement from Senator Johnson would be forthcoming soon after Senator La Follette's return from Europe. The name of Albert D. Good Taste in Entertaining

A Series of Thrice-Weekly Articles by Julia Hoyt (Mrs. Lydig Hoyt)

Alliance. All rights reserved.)

In a previous article I discussed rather generally the attributes necessary to attain the distinction of being a good hostess. Whether the hostess has at her command, unlimited means or merely the simplest sort of hospitality to offer, the first requisite is tact. She must remember that her main object is to make those who partake of her entertainment enjoy themselves and to minister to their comfort unobtrusively. For the time being her personality should be subordinated to the pleasure of her guests. She should be familiar enough with or instinctive enough about the disposition of her guests to know what subject of conversation, for interpret will be conversation rolling, in other words. On the other hand, the good hostess will never force the conversation into channels of interest only to herself and nershame one of the reservants in a beautifully managed house?

The ancient theory that if a guest upsets a cup of coffee or a glass of wine on the tablecloth the perfect hostess will follow suit is, of course, slightly extravagant and such a procedure is decidedly unnecessary. But the idea in back of it is an admirable one—that at all costs the guest must be placed at his case. So, if the pie is burnt or the meat cooked to a cripe do not force your guests into the false position of extolling the rule of or else dud yorders just prior to your guests may feel a few pangs of hunger, tile fure, but at least they will have been spared an embarrassment the memory of which is not song time.

Macon, Ga., November 15.—(Special)—Much business was done to day at the A. M. E. confearnce here. Dr. Mitchell, head of Eatonton district, reported that his district would come short $250, caused solely by members moving from country districts.

The W. H. and F. M. society reported to the conference of the work which it has done and the collection which has been taken for poor preachers and to establish missions. $800 will be given out to 75 preachers. The women also read a resolution requesting the delegates to the general conference to return the present bishop over the state of Georgia because of his fitness to build up the work in the waste places and because of the attention the bishop gives to the more humble—tors, and the good sense he used in every community to cultivate race relations. The conference adopted the resolutions by standing vote.

Characters of pastors were passed. The following died during the year, Revs. R. B. Danell, J. B. Mosely, W. A. Robert, C. White, E. Rutland, Sr., M. Smith, C. E. Macon, and L. G. Garey.

The Story of Sollie

Here Are Facts Which Challenge Humanity, Would You Save Your Life if You Could?

By C. H. Woodward

LITTLE more than a year A ago, Sollie, a Chicago public school boy, was rapidly slipping into imbecility, promising soon to be a burden to the State. Today he stands erect, vital, vigorous, with a physical development and a growing mentality that prom-ises soon to put him on a level with the best of his age, capable, efficient and self-sustaining. From October 4, 1922, to May 8, 1923, Sollie gained 20 pounds and grew 2½ inches in height! On February 1, 1922, "his reading efficiency is not superior to First Grade," reads the school report, and he was placed in the Special Division. Yet, on May 18, 1923, his teacher reports: 18, 1923, his teacher reports:

But the cost need be nothing to make every one of the 22,000,000 school children of the nation sound, healthy, strong youngsters, because Whole Grain Wheat can merely be substituted for the foodless trash on which they are being made diseased, at a considerably less cost than the trash and the attendant diseases with their pitiful results. Think of the 16,000,000 of our school children suffering with physical defects! And they are all essentially due to the demineralized and denatured foods, chief among which is demineralized wheat, As Dr. Robert McCarrison of

This potent food is the natural wheat berry (the only single food known to man which contains in balanced combination all the sixteen elements required each day for normal nutrition) in its whole form just as it comes from Nature's laboratory with nothing added and nothing taken away and is wheat in its supremenutritional effect, because it is the first wheat civilized man ever ate that has been cooked ready to serve without oxidation, distillation, or evaporation effects, the method of cooking being protected by the United States and Canadam governments. It is not whole wheat flour, but is a food after the form ofspaes and beans, and more potent in its nutritional effect than any cooked food ever before produced, because the cooking has not demineralized nor oxidized its miueral constituents.

the armor that protects them in the battle and slips them happily into the Unknown Land. Such was the spirit of Ida Keese, a faithful servant, a noble daughter, a loyal friend, a follower of the Lord.

"In spite of terrible suffering, due to great illness, she worked and struggled without a murmur, smiling while in great pain, and apologizing if an unconscious sigh escaped her; always thankful for the few cessations alloted her, for the kind word or thought, for a blossom that she cherished as gold, working through the day and attending an ailing mother at night, suffering that she might make that mother's last days comfortable and happy. Then, when the mother was taken, Ida's great job was done; the mother's spirit and the voices in heaven called and she answered the cry and joined them.

The last living soldier of the war of 1812 died 28 years ago at the age of 105. There are, however, two score widows of veterans of that last war with Great Britain, who are still living and drawing pensions from the U.S. Government. Only five of these ladies live in the central Southern States. Their pictures and 6 brief stories of their lives are given below. MRS FANNIE V THOMPSON of Virginia MRS SARAH J. Mrs. Huff savs: "I used to have sick spells and suffered quite a bit. It was necessary for me to watch myself, for when constipated these spells were more severe and lasted longer. It would be necessary for me to take a lazative. My daughter-in-law used to give me Black-Draught, which acted quickly and gave me relief. It is splendid for constipation, and after taking a few doses my bowels acted regularly and I felt much better. I have not had a bad spell for fourteen years now."

One of the Youngest

MRS. FANNIE V. THOMPSON gets her mail on a Kingsport (Tenn.) R. F. D., but lives in the edge of Scott County, Virginia. She is only 75-one of the youngest sioners of the War of 1812. Her husband was Private G. W. Thompson, of Capt. Wm. Hill's Company, Virginia litia. He was born in King George County, Va., and nan in honor of George Washington, then President of the United States. He enlisted at Abingdon, and fought at Norfolk. Mrs. Thompson says:

Mrs. Thompson says:

"Two years ago while I was visiting relatives in Russeli County, Virginia, I got a Ladies Birthday Almanac and in it I read about Black-Draught. It seemed to be a very remarkable medicine, so I thought I would try it. When I got home, my daughter got a box of this medicine at the store and we began to use it. . . Occasionally I suffer from headache caused from constipation and biliousness, and for it I have invariably used Black-Draught for the last two years.

"My health has always been good. I am now 75 years old, and have led a very active life, such as a farmer's wife has to. My husband has been dead almost 40 years, and I live with my son who owns this farm."

Pensioner for Many Years

Mrs. Thompson, lives in Virginia.

All five of these remarkable old ladies, living in these Southern States, where Thedford's BLACK-DRAUGHT militia), has received a pension from the United States for has been known and used with success as a family liver many years. Mrs. Sizemore was born Oct. 27, 1826-97 remedy for nearly 90 years, have used Black-Draught them-selves, with success, for many years, and each gave a the veteran of the War of 1812, but has been a widow over short interview to a lady visitor who recently called at ball a century. About flifty years ago I began taking this medicine for my liver. It is the best thing I know of for constitution. My health is very good, and has been for a long time. I never take anything but simple home remedies."

Farm Manager at 84

LTHOUGH 84, Mrs. Cornelia H. Clopton still is active manager of her farm near Americus, Ga. She was the third wife of Dr. Thomas Clopton, a Virginia militian who fought in the War of 1812. For that service, the U.S. Government pays Mrs. Clopton a peusion. She keeps house for herself, and says she can do a "full day's work" in her flower garden which she prizes very highly.

Mrs. Clopton says her acquaintance with Thedford's Black-Draught dates back twenty years.

"A neighbor of mine recommended it to me that long ago," she says, "and I have taken it when I needed anything of the kind ever since. For the last two or three years I have been frequently troubled with constitution and bowel complaints, and when these troubles come on I take Black-Draught. I keep a box of Black-Draught always in the house."

Mrs. Wade a "Free-Lance"

FARLEIGH WADE, a rifleman in Capt. Pryor's Company of Virginia militia, helped Gen. Jackson win the battle of New Orleans; then he came to Tennessee and won a wife. The old rifleman's widow, Mrs. Louisa Wade, of South isburg, Tenn., can best tell the rest of the story.

Pitisburg. Tenn., can best tell the rest of the story.

"In our family we have used Black-Draught for 20 years," she says. "I have suffered a great deal during my life from constipation and costiveness and nothing seemed to do me so much good as Black-Draught.

Por the dull, heavy beadache which comes from a clogged condition of the system, I regard Black-Draught as a fine remedy. Sometimes I take it in the form of a tea, and sometimes I take it dry so." For years I was never without it in the bouse. Now I don't keep house, but I get this old stand-by when I need it.

"I will be 87 years old next November and my health has always been good. I get around without any difficulty—go and come when I please. I'm a free-lance—sometimes I stay with my son in South Pitisburg and sonsetimes I visit my sister in Jasper. I get around everywhere by myself.

"My husband was a soldier in the War of 1812. He was at the Battle of New Orleans and I have often heard him tell about Gen. Jackson and the fortifications made of cotton-bales. If he had lived he would have been 120 years old... I voted for Harding when he ran for President, and I am interested in the conditions of our country."

The old method was to bake or boil the bair after it was first tightly wound and tied on a series of spools. The solution was moistened borax which entered the structure of the hair because of the best. This caused the cells in each bair shaft to open and stay permanently opened so the bair obsorbed humidity and curled exactly as naturally wavy hair curls. It kept this curl, though to a gradually lessening extent for many months. Naturally the new bair that grew in was straight.

Borax had one drawback, it made the hair dry. With naturally dry hair this was a great disadvantage for it produced an ugly frizz. With oily bair it didn't matter. But the

COTTON LETTER.

News, Views

And Reviews

New Orleans, November 15.—Cotton was nervous and active from start to finish today though fluctuations covered a smaller range than usual.

Early advance at Liverpool, rumors of a buillish forecast of ginnings' reports of large business at Manchester, price fixing by a merican and English mills and talk of better spot demand kept buillish enthusials well sustained and all dips met with so buch buying that it proved disconcertion to the control of sellers.

The critical situation abroad, weakness of sterling, reports of extensive declines in the best English securities and ability of speculators to buy spots in the interior on a tendershie basis tended, on the other hand, to scher many louge and induced a good many of them to realize. As a matter of fact buiges seemed to meet as much realizing today as there was buying on the dips. The realizing was very prondunced in the last few minutes probably due to fears of unfavorable developments abroad overnight.

The rumors had it that the ginning fore-fears of unfavorable developments acrowovernight.

The rumors had it that the ginning forecast was 8,170,000 against 8,870,000 last year, indicating about 620,000 for the period against 731,000 last year. Sentiment is so strongly bullish that it is paying more attention to favorable than unfavorable news at the moment, but it may not continue to do that much longer.—Fenner & Teans.

STOCK LETTER.

STOCK LETTER.

New York, November 15.—Stocks yesterday seemed to be under reactionary infuence but the declines did not amount to much in any lines. As soon as any substantial weakness—would develop, the support would make itself felt in pivotal stocks. The public, which a few days ago was buying stocks to some extent seems again to be on the sidelines waiting for a reaction.

With the market hesitating, this, perhaps, is a wise policy as some further reaction would seem likely this week. However, the upward move does not seem to be over and on any further dips good stocks are a purchase.

The advance in prices in the last two weeks would certainly mean that some industrial improvement was on.

Signs of improvement, however, have not been in the necessary tangible form to interest the public. When such signs actually come, and in a number of lines it does look as though they were coming, stocks will likely be higher.

The market leaders still seem the best stocks to buy on reactions. To the four leaders has been added recently the Pan-Americans, which are being tipped for higher prices.—Livingston & CO.

COTTON LETTER.

New York, November 15.—The market today has been quiet, but very steady at price levels somewhat above last night's closing, prices. Liverpool was better than due this morning and Manchester again showed signs of activity which was reflected in the demand of the Liverpool market. Some moderate buying from Liverpool absorbed southern profit-taking in the early trading and later the market advanced to the opening level on a scattered general demand. Sentiment is still bullish and certainly the statistical position is such that no immediate pressure upon the market is in evidence. This advance has occurred without the fevered buying and the great excitement of last week and is, therefore, more substantial in character. The general situation is unchanged and the market appears to be adjusting itself slowly, but surely, to a level of prices between 3a cents to 34 cents. Liverpool futures are due tomorrow, December, 19.68; January, 19.58.—Hubbard Bros. & Co. COTTON LETTER.

(Special.)—The November term of superior court of Macon county is in session in Oglethorpe this week with Judge Z. A. Littlejohn, of Americus. presiding. Civil business was concluded yesterday and the criminal docket taken up. Court probably will not continue longer than this week. COTTON LETTER. New Orleans, La., November 15.—An usconfirmed rumor that the national ginners' estimate as to the quantity of cotton ginned to November 14 will be buillsh, which rumor was circulated in American markets vesterday and in Liverpool this morning, influenced values to a higher level today, as did unfavorable wet weather in the southwest and buillish trade advices from Envaland. It was also reported American as did unfavorable wet weather in the southwest and bullish trade advices from Encland. It was also reported American mills, especially those in the south, were good huyers of spots in the interior. If the federal reserve banks lower the rediscount rate after the holidays, such a develonment would be akin to a policy of infliction in order to maintain prosperity in the United States during the presidential political campaign, and would likely result in higher prices for farm products and securities. Exports from the United States, which, so far this season, compared with thus far last season are 1,983,000 against 1,739,000, are likely to be large last hal of the present week as stock on shipboard at Galveston today, 122,000 against 123,000 last year. Galveston wired clearances there within the next 24 hours will be $5,000. Liverpool cabled the advance was due to good business with India. Another cable stated national ginners' flg ures were not known, but it is rumored they will be very buillen. While the declining tendency of sterling exchange makes for dearer cotton in Liverpool, the shrinkage in the value of exchange is on the other ha.d discouracing to American exporters and while shipments to Europe so far are liberal, they represent old business; mer business may be more difficult because of the recent big depreciation in exchange. The 'rade is somewhat disturbed by advices from Washington to the effect that France may seize Hamburg to force: Germany to deliver the crown prince and the boilion was expressed that such a sternicht start a crisis of the first marnitude between Encland gan France. This afternoon it was rumored national ginners' estimate $170,000 bales ginned to Novembert 14 against $,$70,000 last year.—H. and B. Beer.

New Orleans, November 15—. There is a growing disposition to regard the present level of prices as the logical and inevitable outcome of an acute supply situation irrespective of any part speculative enterprise may have played in reaching it. While a drastic curtailment of consumption will be imperative in order to keer it within the limits, sarrowly defined by a small earry-over from last acason, and an utterly inadequate crop, statistics fo no: show any slowing down as yet, and as a matter of fact, certain important consuming centers are more eager buyers at these prices than they were at a ten cents lower range. In view of the universal scarcity of both raw material and finished products, we believe that cotton will have to be bought at these and higher levels, atthough reactions must be looked for from time to time,—E. B. Norman & Co.

COTTON LETTER.

New York. November 18.—The market today has again given further evidence of great strength. Heavy speculative selling was easily absorbed and, although several attempts were made by local operators to depress the market, their efforts met with small success. Spot advices continue bullish with many inquiries coming from both domestic and foreign sources. Very heavy exports from fexas are expected during the remainder of the month, rnd if is reported that all freight room from the most important ports is taken up to the middle of December. During the interpart of the session the volume of selling around the 34-cent leyel was very heavy, but was well taken, and the market closed steady.—Post & Flags.

COTTON LETTER.

New York, November 18.—The news feature of the day is an unconfirmed report that the national ginners put the crop glands at $1,170,000 bales. If these figures represent the actual situation it is quite probable that crop talk will run towards $500,000 bales, speculators be stimulated in their determination to market their holdings only at higher prices and spinners be more impelled even than heretofore to enter the market for commitments as the situation would be reduced more than ever to the survival of the fittest among the spinners in competition for supplies with which to carry on their industries, Certainly all the selling which took place in today's market found ready buyers and while quotations neither broke the previous high records to which they made a near approach nor sustained the full advance of the day, yet final figures are very impressively above last night's closing. WHEAT DECLINES Industrial Stocks Resume ON LARGE VISIBLE

Chicago, November 15.—With the 224 degree of peace, and with future deliveries being sold in Chicago against pursuing sold in Chicag and provisions varying from 17 cents decline to 5 cents advance.

At first the wheat market showed an upward tendency owing to somewhat aggressive but transient buying from both the east and the west. Besides offerings early were light and there were reports that Minneapolis prices were too low to permit of Canadian imports at Minneapolis. Bulls, however, were handicaped by current talk that wheat tariff hearings in Washington were likely to take several months. Slackening of declining. Oats became easier with wheat and corn. Provisions reflected the weakness of hog values.

Coppers were aided by the favorable quarterly statements of the Porphyry companies and reports that sales of the red metal in the first two weeks of this month totaled between 200,000,000 and 225,000,000 pounds. Mail order and farm implement issues were bought on Secretary Wallace's announcement that the value of 11 principal crops has jumped from $5,200,000,000 in 1921 to about $7,000,000,000 this year.

tion of the forward movement in the industrials and the development of a reactionary tendency by the rails characterized today's session of the stock market. Speculators for the advance continued to encounter resistance in various sections of the industrial list, but a squeezing of the short interest in some of the equipment issues resulted in some marked rains in that group.

The foreign exchanges continued to yield to the disquigting foreign political news, but most observers were agreed that the stock market moved in seeming indifference to calle discussions of the industrial list, but a squeezing of the short interest in some of the equipment issues resulted in some marked rains in that group.

in Washington were likely to take several months. Slackening of design and from buyers gradually took place, and about the middle of the board of trade session was followed by a broadening out of spreading operations between Winnipeg and Chiago. Then a sudden drop in values here ensued, and with little rallying power shown, the market closed at but little above the day's bottom figures.

Announcement of a reduction in vessel rates for Canadian wheat shipments on the Great Lakes counted in favor of the bear side of the wheat market here and so, too, did predictions of a further decided enlargement of the United States visible supply total on Monday. Sympathy with the corn market was also, too some extent, an element in the late depression of wheat.

Corn was weak from the start, with special notice being given to assertions that hog feeding at present is at loss. The majority of traders sected on opinions that readjustments between corn prices and the hog market would be made by corn declining. Oats became easier with wheat and corn.

How to Invest $1,000 to Bring $65 a Year

I HAVE $1,000 to invest. How can I place it to get 61/2% interest and still be assured of-

Complete safety of principal;

Prompt and sure payment of principal and interest in cash;

Freedom from red tape, worry and constant watching?"

This is the problem many investors are facing today. They are anxious to secure a good interest rate for a long term of years, and they want to know just which of the many securities offered will be the best, most convenient and safest.

New issues of STRAUS BONDS now offered provide the answer to this question. The soundness of these bonds is proved by their record of 41 years without a single case of loss. They will give you safety, and $65 a year for every $1,000 invested; $500 will give you $32.50 yearly—or you may invest in any multiple of $100. 41 YEARS WITHOUT LOSS TO ANY INVESTOR

Never Again Will You Be Offered Such an Opportunity as That at Stone Mountain

The opportunity to purchase the choice property overlooking Stone Mountain and directly adjacent to our own large development is one that will be welcomed by shrewd investors. Thousands of tourists will flock monthly to see the great memorial. The land now offered by us at farm land prices should soar to the skies.

As we find we do not need all of the land which we acquired, we can offer for sale a limited amount in 50 and 150-acre tracts. This land should prove a superb investment from every standpoint and should be given personal investigation at the earliest possible

Come to our offices at Stone Mountain and have one of our representatives show you the property. Remember, only a limited number of tracts are for sale, and all adjoin the Stone Mountain Development and overlook the Mountain, so act immediately. Never again will you be offered such a golden opportunity as this is.

the ensnaring red tape of international relations, the distance of seven thousand miles, broke down all berriers and finally succeeded in obtainriers and finally succeeded in obtaining her objective is the story of little Stephen Gernanzian's immigration to the United States. The woman in the case was Mrs. Harding, wife of the late president. It was through her untiring efforts, through the interest she took in the case, that Stephen finally landed safely at Ellis Island after having been a prisoner of the Turks in Constantinople, intercepted on the journey from his native Armenia.

on the journey from his native Armenia.

Through an uncle of the lad Stephen's father and mother heard of the blessings of America. For many years they wanted to start on the greatest adventure of their lives and sail for the United States. The uncle, Jack Gernazian, is a world war veteran in the United States army, and a citizen of Atlanta. With his assistance the little family of Stephen's father and mother and his brother, Clement, finally started on the trip.

Not All Straight Sailing. Not All Straight Salling.

But it was not straight sailing from the doomed land of his ancestors to the great and glorious freedom of America for which his parents had ardently hoped for many years. When the little family arrived in Constantinople, they were detained by the Turks. For what sinister motive the butchers of the Armenian people did not want to see these people leave their shores has remained unexplained. The matter, however, was brought to the attention of the Near East relief, those guardian angels of half a dozen oppressed races in the Levant, and they in turn informed Jack Gernazian in Atlanta of the predicament of his relatives.

Gernazian immediately got in touch with M. Bryson, of the veterans' bureau, who in turn enlisted the aid and influence of Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, president of the Atlanta Woman's club, and Mrs. McCreary, secretary of the Kiwanis club. Gernazian himself went to Washington to see Congressman William D. Upshaw about the matter.

Mrs. Harding, who had been informed of the situation of the little group in Constantinople, used her good influences with the various departments having jurisdiction over such cases. Despite the tremendous distance intervening and all the official handicaps, cablegrams were dispatched to the Orient to the American consul.

Mrs. Harding's interest in the case was aroused through a letter from Mrs. McCreary. The president's wife drove in her own car to Secretary of Labor Davis' home to influence him in the case of the Gernazians. Consul Gets Action, Consul Gets Action.

While they were apending long days and weeks in the gloomy detention camp near Constantinople and they began to rue the day when they left their native town in the hills of Armenia, it seemed that they were never to taste that freedom and absence of anxiety of which their relatives, already in America, had written them.

Then suddenly one morning in that depressing situation came the American consul, accompanied by an American consul, accompanied by an Amer-

"We sailed as the consul told us, but we were held up again in Ellis Island," she said. It appears that immigration officials had not been notified of the extraordinary circumstances of the case and they were holding the Gernazian family until some definite instructions reached them from Washington.
